8. Objectives

The main objective of this course is to equip participants with theoretical knowledge of Green Productivity (GP) methods, techniques, and tools before attending the face-to-face course on Training of Trainers in GP. NPOs are encouraged to nominate the top performers in this course to attend the face-to-face course.

9. Background

GP is a strategy for simultaneously enhancing productivity and environmental performance for overall socioeconomic development which leads to sustained improvement in the quality of human life. It is the combined application of appropriate productivity and environmental management tools, techniques, and technologies to reduce the environmental impact of an organization’s activities, products, and services while enhancing profitability and competitive advantage. The APO has been in the forefront in promoting this strategy in member countries through various modalities. Participants will have the opportunity to understand the GP methodology, tools, and practices and work on exercises to understand GP implementation.

This videoconference course is one of the initiatives implemented by the APO in promoting GP and providing know-how for implementing it. This year, in collaboration with the China Productivity Center, the APO Center of Excellence on GP has established a certification course for GP specialists. Therefore, this videoconference course is considered a preparatory course before participants attend the certification course.

10. Modality of Implementation

This course is offered using the APO’s own videoconferencing platform and appropriate videoconferencing centers in each participating country. The main faculty comprising APO GP experts will deliver presentations from their home countries. Each of the country groups will be moderated by a national project coordinator in each videoconferencing center. The presentations of resource speakers will be interactive, involving exercises and case studies while allowing participants to ask questions. Each group of participants in each country will make presentations on the best practices of GP applications after attending site visits. For individual assessment, participants will take an examination on the final day of the course. Participants who achieve excellent results will have the opportunity to attend the follow-up face-to-face course in consultation with NPOs.
