BANGKOK, 28 April 2015
-The Thailand Productivity Institute (TPI) is hosting the 57th Asian Productivity Organization (APO) meeting with the aim of promoting cooperation among member nations.

Industry Minister Chakramol Pasukvanich said the conference will encourage members to achieve their goals by 2020. Around 100 delegates attending the event include high ranking officials from 20 countries in Asia.

They include India, Japan, South Korea, Nepal, Pakistan, the Philippines, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Iran, Vietnam, Sri Lanka, Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia, Fiji, Mongolia, Laos, Bangladesh, Cambodia and Thailand.

The APO was established in 1961 to increase economic productivity in the Asia-Pacific region with regional cooperation. The three day event being held at the Mandarin Oriental Hotel, will come to an end tomorrow.
