| Rationale | NPOs are the key productivity-promoting institutions in APO members. They must develop and strengthen the capacity to pursue their roles effectively and efficiently. It functions as a collaborative platform to leverage strengths and build partnerships for mutual benefit. It is expected to stimulate innovative, creative ideas to address current productivity needs and requirements and trigger follow-up collaborations, strengthening the spirit of cooperation among members. BCN projects may also be proposed proactively by the APO Secretariat to enable broader collaboration and cooperation and implemented through centralized coordination and arrangements between sending and hosting NPOs. |
